

ENG 237: Working-Class Literature

Introduces U.S. and global literature by and/or about the working class.

Course Student Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of the course students should be able to:

- Analyze literature to identify the differences and similarities in working-class experiences across time and national contexts.
- Identify recurring themes within working-class literature both within and across national contexts.
- Identify differences in style and form in working class literature that are shaped by national status, traditions, and/or cultures.
- Identify the variety of contexts—historical, cultural, sociological, and political—under which literature is produced and distributed.
- Produce critical, reflective, and/or creative writing about working-class literature.

Credits: 4

Prerequisites: WR 115 RD 115 Equivalent placement test scores also accepted.

Program: English